Who's this?	May I have your name, please?
What's your number?	May I have your telephone number, please?
What do you want?	May I tell him (her) the subject of your call?
I don't know anything about that.	I'm sorry, but that is not handled in this department. May I transfer you to...?
Just a minute.	Would you hold the line a moment, please?
Hold the line.	It will take a little time to check. May I call you back?
I'm back.	Thank you for waiting.

Tell Mr. Smith to call Mrs. Brown.	Please ask Mr. Smith to call Mrs. Brown.

THE CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO INTERDEPARTMENTAL DIRECTORY

This publication marks the first comprehensive City and County of San Francisco interdepartmental directory since the last Centrex Directory was published in 1984.

The Directory is divided into three main parts: Departmental Listings, Individual Employee Listings and a short section listing all the City's fax machine numbers. Other features include an index which doubles as a listing of Department Numbers, a cross-reference list that links bureaus to departments, a translation of some of the more common abbreviations used in this book and, finally, the Change Form.

Many City numbers are part of a network with five-digit dialing capability. Where known, the five-digit "inside" number has been included alongside the seven-digit "outside" number. "Inside" dialing not only saves time but also money. Your department is not charged for five-digit "inside" calls, even when calling across town. Some locations can make "inside" calls only inside their own building; in these cases the five-digit number has not been listed.

THE CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO INTERDEPARTMENTAL DIRECTORY

This publication marks the first comprehensive City and County of San Francisco interdepartmental directory since the last Centrex Directory was published in 1984.

The Directory is divided into three main parts: Departmental Listings, Individual Employee Listings and a short section listing all the City's fax machine numbers. Other features include an index which doubles as a listing of Department Numbers, a cross-reference list that links bureaus to departments, a translation of some of the more common abbreviations used in this book and, finally, the Change Form.

The Departmental Listings differ in most cases from the Pacific Bell Government Pages (beginning about page 5 of the regular telephone book) in that this Directory is a tool for City administrators and employees where the Government Pages is a tool designed to help the public find programs & services. While the Pacific Bell Government Pages lists every swimming pool, school and medical program, this Directory emphasizes the accounting, payroll, personnel and purchasing sections of each department.

The Individual Employee Listings include only a fraction of the 30,000 City employees. Those who are listed were selected because they are the most likely people in their departments to receive interdepartmental phone calls. If you regularly receive interdepartmental phone calls and were overlooked, the Change Form at the end of this book can be used to add names to next year's directory.

The Change Form on the last page of the Directory should be used for several purposes. First, since this is the first edition of the Directory to be published in over six years, there may be some errors and omissions. Please use a photocopy of the Change Form to report any corrections, additions or deletions. Second, during the course of the year there will of course be changes as employees join or leave the City or change work locations. Please use the Change Form to report these changes as well. The Department of Telecommunications hopes to publish a new directory every year (subject to budgetary considerations). Information reported on the Change Form will be reflected in the next annual edition of the Directory and will be immediately reflected in the on-line directory maintained by the City Hall switchboard.

Many City numbers are part of a network with five-digit dialing capability. Where known, the five-digit "inside" number has been included alongside the seven-digit "outside" number. "Inside" dialing not only saves time but also money. Your department is not charged for five-digit "inside" calls, even when calling across town. Some locations can make "inside" calls only inside their own building; in these cases the five-digit number has not been listed.

DEPARTMENTAL INDEX

Each department's telephone listings appear on the page indicated in the right-hand column. The "Department Numbers" are printed at left. These numbers are used in interdepartmental accounting and in the interoffice mail system. It is advisable to use the department number when addressing interoffice mail.

Use the "Cross Reference List" in the next section of this directory if you have difficulty finding a department in this index.
